UPCOMING EVENTS

U.S. Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces October 21, 2008

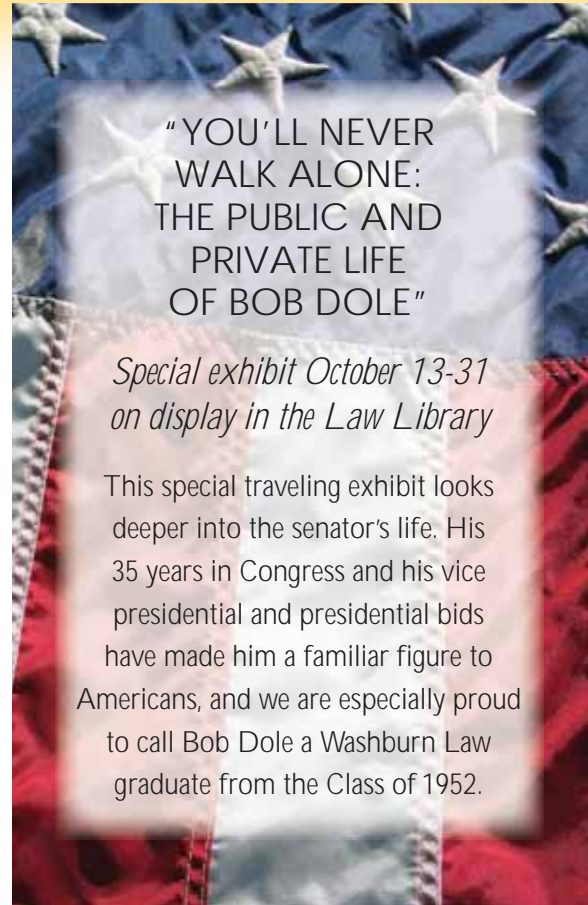

Washburn Law and the Center for Law and Government will host the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces on October 21, 2008. The Court will be on campus as part of its project outreach to hear arguments in case of United States v. Edward S. Macomber, a general courts martial conviction involving the receipt and possession of child pornography. The issue on appeal is whether the military judge erred in denying the Appellant's motion to suppress because the military magistrate had no probable cause to issue the search. The hearing will be held in the Robinson Courtroom, beginning at 9:30 a.m. Counsel for each side will be allowed 20 minutes to present oral argument.

Wanted: Lawyers to Volunteer as Judges November 8-9, 2008

Washburn University School of Law and the Center for Excellence in Advocacy will host the Regional Competition for the American Bar Association Law Student Division's Negotiation Competition on November 8 and 9, 2008. Teams from Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma, and Kansas will be on campus for the competition, which will focus on "Elder Law."

The Negotiation Competition provides a means for law students to practice and improve their negotiating skills. The competition simulates legal negotiations in which law students, acting as lawyers, negotiate a series of legal problems.

"This past year, we hosted a regional competition for Moot Court, and the year before we hosted the regional competition for the ABA Client Counseling Competition," said Mary Ramirez, associate professor of law.

Special exhibit October 13-31 on display in the Law Library

This special traveling exhibit looks deeper into the senator's life. His 35 years in Congress and his vice presidential and presidential bids have made him a familiar figure to Americans, and we are especially proud to call Bob Dole a Washburn Law graduate from the Class of 1952.

"During both events, our success was due in large part to the volunteer efforts of local attorneys and alumni who agreed to act as judges." Alumni who would like to volunteer as judges should contact Ramirez at www.washburnlaw.edu/centers/advocacy/negotiation/, mary.ramirez@washburn.edu, or (785) 670-1631.

November 13-14, 2008

Bradbury Thompson Alumni Center, Washburn University

The United States Constitution was founded on the Rule of Law. The Global War on Terrorism has tested the limits of our constitutional values and has posed unprecedented challenges for the U.S. legal system. Throughout these difficult times, the federal courts have been instrumental in upholding the Rule of Law.

The Rule of Law and the Global War on Terrorism Symposium will examine legal implications of governmental actions taken in response to the attacks of September 11, 2001. Our speakers and participants will reevaluate and reassess these complex issues to explore possible ways forward as our nation prepares for a new administration.

This symposium will feature numerous distinguished international experts, including The Honorable Alberto Mora, Ambassador Pierre-Richard Prosper, Pulitzer Prize winning author Charlie Savage, and many others.

Visit www.washburnlaw.edu/ruleoflaw/ for a schedule and a list of confirmed speakers. The symposium is hosted by the Center for Law and Government and the Washburn Law Journal.

PAST EVENTS

*Humanizing Legal Education Conference/
Symposium, October 19 - 21, 2007*

This symposium explored the causes of the law student distress problem and ideas for improving students' law school experiences. Leading experts in the field, including Larry Krieger, Barbara Glesner-Fines, Susan Daicoff, Gerry Hess, Bruce Winick, Paula Lustbader, and others, represented 40 law schools throughout the country. They presented their work and ideas in this field, which resulted in a symposium issue published by the Washburn Law Journal, available in the online archive at www.washburnlaw.edu/wlj/.

*Writing to Win: Plain Language
Jury Instructions, April 7-8, 2008*

Most jurors have great difficulty understanding and applying the law to the facts. This symposium brought together judges, scholars, and lawyers who are leading the reform movement to improve jury comprehension by drafting instructions in plain English, tailoring instructions to the unique facts of each case, and providing guidance for the jury in approaching deliberations.

Transition - Mark Folmsbee

After 18 years of service, Mark Folmsbee, associate dean, computer services, left Washburn Law to pursue opportunities in medicine with the U.S. Army. Folmsbee joined Washburn as associate director of the Law Library in 1990. He later assumed additional duties as associate dean, Computer Services. This July at the American Association of Law Libraries (AALL) annual meeting in Portland, Oregon, he was awarded the Kenneth J. Hirsh Distinguished Service Award by the AALL Computing Services Special Interest Section. Folmsbee spearheaded the development of WashLaw Web, one of the leading legal research portals on the Internet. He built Washburn's reputation as a host for scores of electronic discussion groups and as a partner with professional groups (such as AALL) in assisting them in developing a web presence. He served as a member of the AALL Executive Board from 1997-2000. This summer, Folmsbee began work on a doctor of osteopathic medicine degree at a school in Mesa, Ariz., through a program with the U.S. Army. His principal interests are orthopedic surgery and emergency room medicine.

The Alumni Association extends its appreciation to the departing board members for their service. The following alumni have completed their terms on the Alumni Association Board of Governors. They are William D. Bunten, '56; David A. Fenley, '79; Carol G. Green, '81; and Ward E. Loyd, '68.

After longtime service to the Board, two faculty members are also departing. They are David E. Pierce, '77, secretary treasurer, and Linda D. Henry Elrod, ba '69, and jd '72, executive secretary.

NEW FACULTY

Visiting Professor Bruce Carolan
Professor Carolan is on leave from his position as head of the Department of Law at the Dublin Institute of Technology in Ireland. He holds law degrees from the United States (J.D., Miami, '81) and Ireland (LL.M., University College, Dublin, '94). He has been a visiting professor at Stetson University School of Law and the University of Florida, Warrington College of Business. Following law school, Professor Carolan clerked for U.S. District Court Judge Frederick B. Lacey, and practiced law in the United States before emigrating to Ireland in 1992.

His primary teaching and research interests include business law and international trade, particularly the Law of the European Union. At Washburn, he will be teaching Business Organizations, International Business Transactions, Antitrust Law, and European Union Law and Policy. He is a member of the California Bar.

Visiting Professor Jalen Lowry
Professor Jalen O'Neil Lowry, '87, returns to Washburn Law from private practice in estate law. She previously taught at Washburn Law for 12 years, from 1989 to 2001. Her courses included Bioethics, Criminal Law, Civil Procedure, Legal Methods, and Legal Analysis, Research, and Writing.

NEW STAFF

Carolyn Barnes
Director of Alumni Services

Barnes began her position in January 2008 after seven years at the Kansas University Alumni Association as director of the Kansas Honors Program. She is a 1991 graduate from Washburn's MBA program and a 1980 graduate of the University of Kansas, majoring in art history and U.S. history.

Marsha Boswell
Director of Marketing Communications
Prior to joining Washburn University School of Law in April 2008, Boswell worked for nine years as the public relations specialist for the Kansas Wheat Commission and the Kansas Association of Wheat Growers. She is a 2008 graduate of Kansas State University's Master of Agribusiness program and graduated magna cum laude from Fort Hays State University in business communications in 1998.
