
This course will be taught entirely online Using Desire2Learn (D2L), the Washburn University online course management system. Before May 23 please do the following.

NOTE: Desire2Learn and other Washburn electronic resources will be down Friday May 20th after 5 pm. We do not know how long the system will be down, so we suggest you log onto D2L before Friday May 20th and Read or Download the materials from the module labeled “Syllabus / First Day.”

1) Make sure your Lexis, Westlaw, and Bloomberg Passwords are working for the summer. If you don’t remember one of your passwords, each service has a “forgot username/password” link available from its login page. If you do not have a password for one of the research services, please contact the vendor’s representative or Tech Support number.

2) Log onto the Course Home Page on Desire 2 Learn
   (Go to MyWashburn and click the course link under MyCourses or go to https://d2l.washburn.edu and use your MyWashburn username and password.)

3) Under the Syllabus / First Day module:
   a. READ the Syllabus;
   b. READ Introduction to D2L;
   c. POST to Discussion: Introduce Yourself;
   d. WATCH (or read the transcript for) “Wind Farm Works to Reduce Eagle Deaths from Old Turbines”;
   e. TAKE QUIZ: Preliminary Readings & Course Materials. Take the Quiz by or before midnight on Monday May 23rd. The remainder of the First Week materials for the course will not appear until you have successfully taken the Quiz. There are many more things you need to do for Week 1, so do not delay this part of the course.

Contact both of your instructors immediately if you have problems with any of these activities.
