LAW SCHOLARSHIP

Hugh D. Mauch, '56, was born in Nashville, Kan., prior to the stock market crash of 1929. He graduated from Great Bend High School and experienced firsthand the challenges of the "dirty thirties." His undergraduate degree is from Fort Hays State University. While at Washburn, he was editor-in-chief of the law review board and a member of Phi Alpha Delta legal fraternity.

Over the past 30 years, Mauch developed a robust solo practice in Great Bend. Previously, he was associated with the Great Bend practice of the Keenan Law Firm. In his earlier years, Mauch was involved with plaintiff work.

Hugh's first wife, Kay, died of cancer in 1973. He later married Patricia Engleman. They are very proud of their children. Hugh's son, Bill, is a urologist in Salina, Kan., and his daughter, Susan, is an attorney with the Topeka firm of Cosgrove, Webb, & Oman. Patricia's daughter, Jennifer, is the manager of environmental operations for Burlington Northern in Seattle, Wash., and her son, Greg, works with an Austin, Texas, construction company.

"I recognized that giving back to my law school was an important part of my professional responsibility as an attorney," said Mauch. "I am grateful for the excellent education I received at Washburn Law." From the time of his first gift of $500 more than 40 years ago, he has given consistently and generously to such projects as the law library construction, Washburn Law annual fund, Dean's unrestricted fund, and to the law school's alumni association.

Mauch has taken the next step to assure that students from western Kansas have the same opportunities he enjoyed by naming Washburn University School of Law as the beneficiary of a paid-in-full insurance policy. The Hugh D. Mauch Law Scholarship will be used to support western Kansas college graduates who plan to further their education at Washburn Law.

"We greatly appreciate Hugh's generosity in establishing this scholarship," said Dean Thomas Romig.
